There are two numbers under 'Contact' on the website. Nick for spares and service, and mine for anything else.

As for the online ordering of tools and parts - the application is being developed by a web firm as we speak.

Yes, you do sound cynical. Maybe that's understandable, I don't know. I don't know you and neither do I know about your history with Lewis. There are about 3 distributors for Utiform equipment in the UK right now. So really I suggest you select the correct target for this cynisism rather than posting comments about YOUR and HIS dealings on a website that has ABSOLUTELY NOTHING TO DO WITH HIM.

So let me make it clear. This website or company has nothing to do with Lewis Britten. I don't want Lewis's name plastered all over this forum and making the whole thing about 'him'. Any other comments about an independent distributor who I have nothing to do with will be removed.
