

MP75 Claims

Posted by stu - 2009/06/02 12:00

Is anyone out there using MP75 consistently? On their video Knauf claims that a 2 and 1 gang can easily do 150m2 of plastering in a day. Is that right? I want to hear from someone who uses it all the time. And basically to give me an honest answer about what its like to use and the benefits and the disadvantages set against float and set with hardwall and finish.

=====

Re:MP75 Claims

Posted by patrick wait - 2009/06/02 15:53

If YOU spay mp75 just do 50 meters a day per man if it is in big rooms it is lovely stuff to use, any thing blocks plaster board and just prime high suction backgrounds and spay it on. not like hard wall were you have to spay frist coat then clean the machine then get a drill out and mix up your setting coat and go over the same wall two times what a waste of time by the time you have done this with mp75 you have spayed it on finish it and go home

=====

Re:MP75 Claims

Posted by Ian Jones - 2009/06/12 19:56

its bloody hard work though if youre doing it properly

=====

Re:MP75 Claims

Posted by paulius - 2009/06/23 21:36

I am working with mp75 every day,it is hard work if you dont now what you dooing.You cant do 50 meters in one set,you have to do two or three sets by 25 meters than you can get goot results

=====

Re:MP75 Claims

Posted by Scott - 2009/06/27 23:36

Hi,

How do you manage to do 3 sets in a day then? I think 2 sets makes for a long day, let alone three. I'd be interested to know how you do it.

=====
Re:MP75 Claims

Posted by paulius - 2009/06/28 09:50

Hi,you can't do three sets and go home at 3 a clock you will finisf at 6 or 7 but if you dooing price work it's nise money.

=====

Re:MP75 Claims

Posted by gary gibson - 2009/07/01 19:31

fuck that

=====

Re:MP75 Claims

Posted by ivor biggun - 2009/07/05 12:10

totally agree with grand fuck thatworking til 6 or 7 then driving an hour homedon't think so

=====